

CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS

NLMRW is in need of presentations on the subject of reclamation, remediation and related topics that affect the unique climate and ecosystem of northern locations.

Abstracts (up to 500 words) should be submitted by March 31, 2015 to Justin Ireys (Justin.Ireys@alaska.gov). Authors of accepted papers will be notified by May 1, 2015.

Full papers (up to 10 pages) are required for all accepted abstracts by June 26, 2015.

Accepted presentations of papers (presentation and pdf version) should be provided to Justin Ireys no later than August 15, 2015.

These technical sessions will be presented September 1st & 2nd, 2015.

SHORT COURSES:

This year's attendees will have the option of choosing between two exciting short courses being offered, one of which will be on ARD. The courses will take place on Thursday, September 3, 2015.

TOURS:

Two field tours are being offered — one to Kensington Mine and one to Greens Creek Mine. Both field tours will take place on Monday, August 31, 2015 and require a ferry ride to the mine site. Kensington requires underground travel through part of the tour.

The Northern Latitudes Mining Reclamation Workshop Presents

Reclaiming the North

August 31 — September 3, 2015

Juneau, Alaska

The Northern Latitudes Mining Reclamation Workshop (NLMRW) is a collaborative effort between Alaska and Northern Canada aimed at shedding light on the unique issues facing reclamationists in the North.

This year's conference is located in Juneau — one of the most beautiful areas of Southeast Alaska. Come see the massive mountains, scenic glaciers and pristine coast of the Last Frontier. The conference will include field tours of local mines, short courses, technical sessions, and various social events. We look forward to seeing you there!

More information on registration and accommodations will be forthcoming

Questions? Feel free to contact Samantha Hudson at: Samantha.Hudson@alaska.gov