

Extended Call for Posters Only

The Society for Ecological Restoration (SER) Mid-Atlantic Chapter, with Temple's Department of Landscape Architecture & Horticulture, presents its 9th Annual Conference,

"Ecological Restoration: How Well Does It Work?"

March 20-22, 2014 - Temple University, Ambler Campus, 500 Meetinghouse Rd, Ambler, PA

While the deadline for contributed papers has passed, SER Mid-Atlantic is still accepting abstracts for posters to be considered for inclusion in the 2014 annual conference program. The selected posters will be displayed throughout the day on Friday, March 21 and presented during a "Poster Pub" after the sessions.

This conference will discuss how to evaluate the success or failure of ecological restoration projects. Posters may pertain to, but are not limited to, the following subject areas:

- Successes, failures, and current status of restoration projects (case studies welcome)
- Design of sustainable landscapes
- Prevention and restoration of biodiversity loss
- Ecosystem resilience
- Novel ecosystems
- Global climate changes affecting ecological community composition
- Trends in invasive species distribution related to urban systems
- Green infrastructure connections to ecological restoration
- Agro-ecology connections to ecological restoration
- Management of sites experiencing ecological change
- Ecosystem services and economics
- Re-establishing landscape connectivity
- Design of future restoration projects

Approximately 300 restoration practitioners, scientists, administrators, environmental engineers, landscape architects, land stewards, students, and others are expected to attend the conference. Please send poster abstracts to Tim.Wenskus@parks.nyc.gov by March 14, and provide the following information:

- Poster Title
- Abstract (not longer than 1 page)
- Name, affiliation, and contact information (phone number and email)

Applicants will be notified of the selection committee's decisions by March 14, 2014.
